EASTER SUNDAY.

The Day was Glorious, and Its Observance Quite General.

MUSIC WAS THE MAIN FEATURE

At all of the Churches-The Programme were Elaborate Almost Without Excepston-The Services at the Cathedral, St. Matthew's Fourth, Street and Other Churches-Thousands Went to Places of Amusement in the Afternoon.

It was a glorious Easter Sunday, The day opened rather cool, bur the sun came out from the east without a storm laden cloud to intercept a sin gie bright ray, and by 10 o'clock the temperature was quite comfortable, even with the lighter attire which is customary for Easter Sunday. The fine weather continued through the afternoon and until the sun settled behind the Ohio hills in one of those beautiful sun-sets typical of the Ohio valley at

The attendance at all of the churches in the city and in the neighboring towns was unusually large, the favorable weather contributing to this. Perhaps the largest congregation of the was that at the 10:30 service at St. Joseph's Cathedral, when over 1,700 per-sons were seated. At the Fourth Street, St. Matthew's, First Presbyterian and other large churches the seat-ing capacity was severely tested and at away.

The church interiors were beautiful beyond description in many instances. The Elm Grove motor line carried a great crowd to Wheeling park, the opening of which occurred yesterday. The wheelmen were out more numerously than any day yet this season, and as the roads were excellent they spent a pleasant afternoon on the roads surrounding the city.

Special Easter services were held at many of the churches in the evening, and invariably were well attended,

At the Cathedral.

The principal services of the day at St. Joseph's cathedral took place at 10:30 o'clock. Between 1,700 and 1,500 St. Joseph's cathedrai took place at 10:30 o'clock. Between 1.700 and 1,500 people composed the congregation, for whose accommodation camp stools were provided. Pontifical high mass was given with Right Rev. Rishop Donahue as celebrant; Rev. Father Boutlou, arch priest; Rev. Father Harris, deacon; Rev. John Dally, sub-deacon; Rev. O. H. Moye, master of ceremonies. The Easter sermon was preached by the bishop and was a thoughtful discourse that interested and instructed the vast congregation.

The cathedral was beautifully and artistically decorated for Easter. The alter and sanctuary were especially objects of admiration. Palms, flowers and candles were used in profusion.

At the conclusion of this service the Papal blessing was given by the bishop. Early mass was celebrated at 5:20, 6:20 and 9 a, m. In the evening the Vespers services attracted another very large congregation at which special musical features were given. The music at the morning service, too, was notable.

The Easter services at the Fourth Street M. E. church were very beauti-ful, and attracted large crowds, espe-

Street M. E. church were very beautiful, and attracted tarse crowds, especially in the evening, when the seating capacity was insufficient, many people being unable to get inside the church. Rev. Dr. Sooy, the pastor occupied the pulpit, both morning and evening, and delivered whort discourses from themes bearing on the resurrection of the Savior. The pulpit was surrounded by a forest of lilies and palms, making as very pretty floral display. The special musical programme, rendered by the full choir, under the direction of Mr. Ned Bullard, was a rare treat of sacred song. The selections were of more than ordinary difficulty, many being gems of the great composers, but their rendition was in capable hands, and each chorus, anthem or carol was sung with true artistic blending and finish. The evening's song service was the more relaborate of the day, the programme of which is printed below. The choir acquitted liself with great credit, and their work reflected careful training. The solo and obligato parts were well sustained, and the chorustinging at all times was full and pure. The song service in the evening: Organ Voluntary. Thayor Ghorus—"Hallelujah" — arranged from

St. Matthew's Church.

Elaborate Easter services were held at St. Matthew's P. E. church. There were two services in the morning, commencing at 6:30 a. m., and 19:30 a. m., respectively, and both of which drew large congregations. The altar and chancel were tastefully banked with lifter and flowers appropriate to Easter tide.

At both services the artistic musical programmes, which have been previously printed in the Intelligencer, were rendered under the efficient direction of Mr. Parls R. Myers, who also rendered several organ voluntaries. The vested choir was considerably strengthened for the occasion. The services throughout were largely of a musical character. Rev. Dr. Swope delivered an address, setting forth the reasons and circumstances of the observance of Easter, and all that the season implies. At both services the artistic musical Special services appropriate to the day, were held at the Zane Street M. E. day, were held at the Zane Street M. E. church, Around the pulpit and altar, beautiful flowers and plants had been placed, the white Illies being in abundance. Special music had been prepared by the choir, under the direction of Professor Emerson, and each place was excellently rendered. Every available seat in the church was occupied at both services, and as was at all our churches, the Easter bonnets and hats were quite prominent.

the Easter bonnets and hats were quite prominent. Prominent prepared for the day, to include both morning and evening services, prohibited the pastor. Rev. B. B. Evans, from making any lengthy remarks or presenting a sermon. He took occasion, however, to refer to the day, its special references and its teachings. The report of the treasurer shower that the debt so long hanging over the church, is lifted, and there is great rejoicing over the fact.

Second Presbyterian

Special song services were held at the econd Presbyterian church, both in the morning and evening, and the pastor, morning and evening, and the pastor.

Rev. Joseph Speer, delivered two excellent discourses. Grouped around the pulpit was a beautiful assortment of the choicest Easter flowers. Large congregations attended both services.

First Presbyterian.

At the First Presbyterian church yes-terday. Rev. Dr. Cunningham spoke upon the Resurrection, delivering one of his usual able discourses. The pulpit was banked in flowers, Easter illies pre-dominating. The quartette, composed of Mrs. Flora Williams, Mrs. Peebles Ta-tum, Mr. Will Duy and Mr. H. W. Hughes, rendered an excellent musical programme.

A delightful song service was rendered and the Y. M. C. A. Quartette sang several selections in its usual efficient manner. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Will McKee, a former Wheeling boy, and now secretary of the South Side branch of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A. At the conclusion of Mr. Davis 'address, Mr. McKee gave a brief, practical talk.

Mr. Davis were words of heat the words of Pilate when Christ was delivered to him: "Pilate's words were words of inquiry, but the rabble answered back that Christ be crucified. The people did not listen to Christ when he was on carth, they did not even accept him on trial, as the Messiah. Christ came into the world at a time when the world was enshrouded in sin; He came to point the way out of the moral darkness, but the people refused even to give Him a hearing.

The speaker gave a graphic description of a city in Bombay suffering from the plague, and argued that amid all the desolation and death had a courier announced that a healer was come, the plague-stricken populace would have answered with one voice: "Give the healer a trial." They would let him irp his healing arts, knowing that in case of failure, he yet could do no harm. In their desperation they would have been willing to try any remedy.

At present the world is soul-sick, morally sick, Pilate's words: "Wird shall I do with Jesus?" still come up. The answer to the question: "Take Christ for your Saviour." He is the Great Healer, and there is no other. In the closing decade of the nineteenth centur powers are to-day as they always were. The way to test Christianity is to try it.

Mr. Davis urged the young men present to be shining examples of Christianity, and in praising the work done by the Young Men's Christian Association, he suggested that the letters Y. M. C. A. stand for "You Must Compel Adoration." By this motta he meant that the work of the association should be so plain that the work out adorated the same and the contraction of the same and the

tant than that of caring for those who are helpless, and in this the Altenheim outshines some others for the reason that prevents them from living and enjdying even the small comforts of life they used to enjoy in the days of their prosperity; when the support they relied on was taken away from them by the hand of

taken away from them by the hand of death.

The home that has been provided for this estimable class of people is mainly supported through the great heart and ilberality of a man whose name it is not necessary to mention here. But that one man cannot do everything; he is liberal enough to give the philanthropically disposed people an opportunity to have some interest in keeping up the home. Therefore it lies with the people at large to testify not only their sentimental, but pocketbook sympathy in the cause by filling the Opera House next Tuesday evening, on which occasion the concert for the benefit of Altenheim will be given. The following programme ought to be attractive enough to entertain even the critical:

THE HIGH SCHOOL

"Citizen" Inquires who Wants Ose—Pre-sents Arguments. To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR:-The board of education has decided to establish a High school to sat-isfy a demand that seems to exist almost exclusively in the minds of some members of the board and gratify a desire to win undying fame. Who wants a high school? question. The Catholic church has its own schools and its membership com-prises nearly one-third of our population, who will be taxed without just benefit. The poor and hard working class of our citizens much as they may desire high education for their children desire high ceaution for their chiledren can earn before they are at school long enough to reach the high school. The rich people usually send their children to colleges and seminaries of their choice. The colored children cannot be admitted to the high school owing to the state law sughtfring it in the educated separate and spart. Therefore, the number who can and will avail themselves of the benefits of a high school, are quite limited, say about 200 pupils, representing pethaps 150 parents in a nepulation of forth thousand, of the 200 pupils there will not remain in the high school long enough to graduate, more than probably twenty each year. Those who may patronize the high schools in generally satisfied with our present grammar school system which we believe to be as good as high schools in many other places. If we had more efficiency and economy in the management of what we now have there could be no cause of complaint or desire for a change. generally require the wages their chil change.

A matter of so much importance to the entire community should be submitted to a vote of the people. There can be no appeal upon a question decided in this way and when settled in this manner all good citizens cheerfully acquiesce. The board made a grave mistake in refusing to submit the proposition to the people and should reconsider their action if they desire to retain the confidence of our citizens.
